You have to build a calculator that looks like this:

There will be two text fields that will take input. There will be two buttons - "+" and "-". If "+" is pressed, the output label will show the added value of the two text fields. Same for "-".